RecFind 6 .NET smart-client user interface

Simply the best

The RecFind 6 user interface is the most technologically advanced user interface available in any Content Management product.

It is based on the very latest Microsoft .NET 'smart-client' paradigm – this is the future of all application interfaces.

The smart-client user interface has a number of distinct advantages over old fashioned user interfaces like the Explorer-type, fat-client and thin-client.

It is a rich Windows interface providing the easiest to use, most intuitive and most configurable interface possible. No user ever needs to see more functions or more data than is required for their job. It can be easily tailored for the needs of any user or application using the advanced tools supplied standard with RecFind 6.

It runs over both the LAN and the Intranet/Internet as a single user interface. This is a huge benefit as your employees only have one interface to learn, not two. So whether you are working from a hotel room in Hong Kong or from your desk at your office you simply double click the RecFind 6 icon and run the exact same software.

It does not require a browser when running over the Intranet/Internet. All the protocols required to process secure transactions over the Internet are embedded within the standard RecFind 6 client. These protocols includes security (i.e., the encrypting and de-encrypting of transactions for Secure Socket Layer – SSL - protocol when running HTTPS and Web Services, the communications protocol used to communicate across the Web).

Browsers by their very nature were never designed for high volume, sophisticated applications and browser resident applications are always subject to the limitations of the browser environment. The RecFind 6 smart-client user interface avoids all of these common pitfalls.

Because we do not rely on the browser we were able to optimize the performance of RecFind 6 over the Internet to maximize performance and minimize upload and download times, especially for electronic documents and images.

It is also the easiest to deploy and maintain and the lowest cost to deploy and maintain. It is also fully integrated with MS Windows (up to and including Windows 7) and MS Office.

The RecFind 6 user interface represents the best possible interface using the very latest technology. There is no other application user interface that is more intuitive, easier to use or more configurable than this.

Easily & quickly solve any compliance or information management problem.
